No, there's no coordinated attack on you here.

I've offered you several chances to do a full length interview, where you can express whatever you want to express, in a format of your choosing, on a YouTube channel with 1.7 million subscribers. This isn't what people who want to harm you do. This is what people who want your work to be known, seen, and donated to by as many people as possible do. If we've ever said something you believe is incorrect, this is your opportunity to tell the world.

You can choose to accept one or two things.

- 1) it's the rest of the world
- 2) it's me

The hit piece you're referring to is mostly showing logs of your own chats in public rooms. That isn't a bit piece. It's a documentary. One that, unfortunately, doesn't seem to have resulted in any self reflection.

As I said. I wish you the best of luck with this project. But there's not much more involvement I can have here anymore. These discussions are too unhealthy.

This is going to be a major issue for FUT0, and for you.

You're referring to a video that has incredibly blatant fabrications about us to be a 'documentary'. That's rich. The fact that they took some screenshots with the context of their bullying, harassment, libel and misinformation campaign cropped out and literally fabricated two of them out of nothing doesn't matter to you. The fact that he simply tells a monologue not even related to the screenshots where he misrepresents absolutely everything to the extreme doesn't matter to you.

All you're doing is proving how immensely damaging the harm they've caused to us has been. Do you expect that I'm going to drop it? The people who have done this are going to pay 10x for the harm they have caused to me. They've escalated this to the point that people are threatening me and mailing stuff to my address they leaked. What do you think the end result is going to be, and what good are you going to get for your right to repair movement by chaining it to this?

I don't get it. I don't get why you've chosen to side with bullies who are openly dishonest and telling fabricated stories.
